Dear Colleagues,

Thank you kindly for your last message and for confirming the dates for the next KALKAN Working group meeting. We are very pleased that this event will be held in Dhaka and we are looking forward to start working with you in the organization of it.

In reply to your inquiry, we are always grateful to receive suggestions from the host countries regarding feasible places to celebrate the meetings and we are honored that you proposed the Police Staff College Bangladesh.
In this sense, please be aware that every time INTERPOL is covering the expenses of an event, there are several internal procurement processes to be compliant with in order to respect the agreement with the donor and also the organization's regulations and conditions. Thereupon, the standard process of Procurement to select the venue for an external event requests that they have first to ask for several quotations from different suppliers from the host country specifying with great detail the service to be provided and the cost per unit and total price of the service. Only after a careful consideration of the options that fit INTERPOL conditions and the needs of the meeting, we can confirm where the event is suitable to take place for further discussion with the hosting country.

For that matter, in order to take into consideration the Police Staff College Bangladesh when assessing the options available, we would appreciate if you could send us a quotation/estimation of the final cost (per unit and total) of all the services specified in our last email: transportation between the venue and the airport and vice-versa, two coffee breaks per day, breakfast, lunch and dinner for all the participants (20/25) for the three days of duration of the meeting. Whether you have any other relevant information of the venue that you consider relevant to share, it will be of help.

Thank you very much for your support and understanding and please do not hesitate to contact us if you need any further assistance.

Sincerely,

INTERPOL
